When you meet a family for the first time it is like walking on eggshells. You never know about the history of the family or where there roots are. We are taught as Christians to remind fellow Christians of our salvation and that we cannot lose it. But we also do not know if they have a non-believing loved one already pass. So, step lightly on the first few visits. Push for their salvation but be mindful of the fact that not everyone has this gift.

Hebrews 7:25 New International Version

25 Therefore he is able to save completely[a] those who come to God through him, because he always lives to intercede for them.

To save us completely as we come to him. This salvation promises us to dwell in the house of the Lord forever as found at the end of psalms 23. But we as Christians sometimes worry about this because we have loved ones that are not professing this and some say the opposite, what about them? The gift is for anyone. Christ has done all the work.

2 Timothy 1:9 New International Version

9 He has saved us and called us to a holy life—not because of anything we have done but because of his own purpose and grace. This grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the beginning of time,

Often, I am asked is my non-believing loved one going to miss out with salvation at then end if they don't repent? Well, I believe that we have a kind and merciful God that gives every chance possible after all this is the point of revelation and the seven years of tribulation. To give us one last chance. But friends, do not let your loved ones go without one last push at salvation. I have had may non-believers profess Christ with their dying breaths at the end receiving salvation just like the thief at the cross. But do not wait for the chance after this, the Bible tells us we need to profess.

2 Corinthians 6:2 New International Version

2 For he says,

“In the time of my favor I heard you,
and in the day of salvation I helped you.”[a]

I tell you, now is the time of God’s favor, now is the day of salvation.

Now is the appointed time not later we are not promised a later, on this earth. Do it now count your many blessings in heaven and rejoice in the Lord! His will is awesome.

Sharing His love,
